

SUKKOTH FESTIVAL OPENS THIS EVENING

Hebrew Feasting Time to Be Observed Eight Days—Services Tonight.

The Sukkoth Festival or Feast of Tabernacles, which comprises eight days, beginning this evening and continuing until October 1, will be observed by Hebrews throughout the world. It is the great festival of rejoicing and commemorates the journey of the Jews through the wilderness and its aim is to impress upon the people of today the historic facts of that time. It is also the Thanksgiving Day and the harvest festival, the decorations being palm branches, citrons, myrtle and willows, representing the ingathering of the harvest.

At the opening services in Adas Israel Temple at 6 o'clock this evening Rabbi Grossman will officiate and deliver the initial sermon on "Thou Shalt Rejoice." The Rev. A. Shefferman will conduct the musical features.

Tomorrow and Friday special solemnities will be held at 8 a. m. At 10 o'clock Rabbi Grossman will preach on "All For Unity," and it will be a plea for faith, patriotism and joy.

At the Eighth Street Temple, the Washington Hebrew Congregation will hold services for the children's festival tonight at 8 o'clock with Rabbi Stern and Simon officiating. Services will be held tomorrow with the sermon by the Rev. Dr. Abram Simon.

Miss Purcell Envy Of Beauties on Broadway

Times' Prize Winner Considers Offers for Moving Picture Work in New York—National Reputation Causes Public to Be Eager for a View.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The most beautiful girl in America, so proclaimed by a committee of artists in Los Angeles last summer, is in a fair way to gain a reputation as the witliest, like-wise, if Miss Ruth M. Purcell, winner of The Washington Times' beauty contest, and the national beauty sweepstakes also, continues as she began her first day in New York.

"I am here looking for a good hotel, the future of motion pictures, and something to astonish my mother—does New York contain such things?" she asked an interviewer today.

Miss Purcell immediately centered the interest of New York newspaper men and answered their questions in the simple, direct way for which she has become well known in Washington. She arrived in New York with the purpose of consulting with motion picture magnates who have been in correspondence with her ever since she was proclaimed the nation's most beautiful daughter.

Whether she will accept their inducements to enter upon the career of a motion picture actress, she declines to state positively. While the beauty which dazzled the judges of the Los Angeles contest is Miss Purcell's most publicized asset, it has been discovered that she has a supply of common sense, that even outstrips her other possessions.

"I don't like to be considered a 'rube,'" she told her interviewers today, "yet I don't want to lose the one thing that makes a 'rube' something a little wiser than the city person."

This being about the sum total of information Miss Purcell divulged to the newspaper contingent about her particular plans. She followed this up with a statement that she had been educated in the Immaculate Conception Convent in Washington, for which she devoutly thanked heaven, as her experience so far had taught her she would need all the religion she can get to go through the difficult problems of the motion picture world.

The sum total of the things written about Miss Purcell by the enterprising young men who visited her at the best of their city editors seems to be centered on the young woman's smile, which is described in the most ecstatic terms, and through which it would seem that the verdict of the people of Washington and of the national beauty contest judges is concurred in by the New York experts who have so far seen her. Miss Purcell expects to spend the next two or three days in consultation with the agents of the motion picture concerns, and will finally make up her mind whether she will be an actress in the pictures or will return to Washington and her position as a stenographer at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor.
